NEW AND KEY PRODUCTS

Since its founding, SILVENT, whose name is an abbreviation of the Latin “Silencium Ventum” or “silent wind”, has devoted all its research, development and engineering know-how to designing efficient products that lower sound levels, conserve energy and meet increasingly stringent safety requirements. The company’s policy is to consciously improve working conditions for those people who work with compressed air on a daily basis. No investment in new products is too great as long as this goal is attained. SILVENT air nozzles and the SILVENT technology has become a well established concept throughout the world.
